

Students' Right to READ

To my students, I promise:

-  I will provide a wide selection of materials on many topics for you to read and explore.
-  I will introduce new ideas, histories, religions, and peoples that affect the world.
-  I will share ideas and support you as you make your own ideas and decisions.
-  I will communicate and involve your family in your education, as they are the guiding factor in your choices.
-  I will set time aside from lessons for you to enjoy reading for pleasure.
-  I will create an inviting area within the classroom dedicated to reading only.
-  I will show you that with the freedom to read, nothing is out of your reach.

Sarah Wilhelm – September 2, 2010

Created by using the ideas and wording from the ALA Office for Intellectual Freedom documents. <<http://www.ala.org>>